DETAILED ACTION

Priority

Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Specification

The amendment filed 11/21/01 is objected to under 35 U.S.C. 132 because it introduces new matter into the disclosure. 35 U.S.C. 132 states that no amendment shall introduce new matter into the disclosure of the invention. The added material, which is not supported by the original disclosure, is as follows: On page 14, line 10, changing "ppm to mg."

Applicant is required to cancel the new matter in the reply to this Office Action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) do not apply to the examination of this application as the application being examined was not (1) filed on or after November 29, 2000, or (2) voluntarily published under 35 U.S.C.

Art Unit: 1761

122(b). Therefore, this application is examined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

Claim 39 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Ehret (U.S. Pat. No. 6,159,724).

Ehert teaches the propagation of yeasts and lactic acid bacteria. Examples 2 and 3 show the use of wheat germ, yeast autolysate, and sea salt (sodium chloride) with water. The 30 grams of sea salt to 10 liters of water is a concentration in the medium of 3,000 ppm (3,000mg/L). Examples 6 to 8 show the use of the culture mediums for a mixed culture of yeast (that has been exposed, and therefore enriched, to the dosage medium) and lactic acid bacteria.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 22-39 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Geneix et al. (U.S. Pat. No. 4,765,992)(hereinafter Geneix) in light of applicants' admissions.

Geneix teach the use of cell walls or yeast ghosts "for the stimulation of alcoholic fermentation of any substratum, in particular drinks such as wine, beer, sake, etc." Further, it "is possible to add to these yeast ghosts living cells or any other compatible additive." (Col. 10, lines 49-57). Geneix does not teach what the "other compatible additive" might be.

Art Unit: 1761

Applicants state that it is well known to add certain minerals because, in their absence, "it can lead to sub-optimal, even incomplete fermentations, problems with head retention and yeast flocculance" and lower ethanol production. Therefore it would have been obvious to those of ordinary skill in the art to combine the minerals, referred to by applicants as be well known and used in the brewing arts with the yeast cells of Geneix in order to obtain more successful fermentations. Further, combining materials, or additives for their art recognized function and said additives do perform their art recognized function is obvious. In re Kerkhoven, 205 U.S.P.Q. 1069; In re Castner, 186 U.S.P.Q. 213. Also see MPEP 2144.06.

While the cited art is silent as to the amounts of mineral salt to use, as stated by applicants, it is a result effective variable and therefore, would be optimized by those in the brewing arts.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Van Lanen et al., disclose the production of distillers yeast.
